GB2RS LOCAL NEWS - 1 November 2026

Next, this coming week's Local News, which is compiled from verified items which are published on the RSGB's website

The GB2RS local news bulletin is intended to be compiled mainly from items supplied by the RSGB. Unfortunately, most of these have not been updated for a very long time and, therefore, can no longer be considered as either being current or as actual news items. In order to ensure that this particular bulletin which is being broadcast for Central Scotland is up-to-date and accurate, only items which have been verified as being current and correct have been selected with priority being given to actual news. To have an item included in this broadcast, please send it to radcom@rsgb.org.uk or by contacting your local GB2RS newsreader. In order to ensure that your input is included in the most appropriate broadcast, please include the date.

Last weekend the CQWW SSB Contest took place and both the Cockenzie and Port Seton Amateur Radio Club and the West of Scotland Amateur Radio Society took part. The WoSARS approach was based on the efforts of individual members and they reported that their cumulative effort had proved successful on behalf of the Club.

Last Sunday, Scotland was under the influence of storm Boelo with gale force winds sweeping the country. As a result the attendance of the Galashiels Radio Rally and Open Day was reduced although many of the regular stands from outwith the Borders area were present. The Galashiels and District Amateur Radio Society, which which were the organisers, did expected it to break even.
